Please join New York Institute of Technology NYIT, Judith DiMaio, dean of the School of Architecture and Design, NYIT Professor Robert Dadras, and the speakers listed above for a one-day symposium about Downtown Revitalization.

Downtown revitalization experts will gather this year in New York City for a one-day conference offering informative sessions on urban design, architecture, and downtown revitalization. The conference is co-sponsored by the New York Main Street Alliance (NYMSA) and New York Institute of Technology (NYIT). Now in its 15th year, the annual Main Street Forum, a series of lectures and panel discussions, will offer information and practical advice on downtown revitalization issues to communities that are revitalizing urban commercial corridors and main street districts.

Registration for the conference is $45. Admission is free for NYIT students, faculty, and alumni. Pre-registration is required. For more information, contact the New York Main Street Alliance at 845.423.7114 or nymainstreetalliance@gmail.com.
